

4-H News

February 11, 2015

Creative Clovers 4-H Club

News Reporter – Naomi Kinne

A brand new club, The Creative Clovers had their 1st meeting on December 18. The Pledge of Allegiance was led by Hannah Good. The 4-H pledge was taught and discussed and then was lead by Naomi Kinne. Guest speaker, Lindsay Goeglein, and Naomi Kinne talked about the variety of 4-H projects available.

The club members learned about the different officer roles and then voted. Results are as follows:

Naomi Kinne, President,
Sierra Burris, Vice President,
Lauren Park, Secretary,
Treasurer, Carli Hutchison,
News Reporters, Carli Hutchison and Naomi Kinne
Community Service officer, Sierra Burris
Recreation Leader, Hannah Good,
Historian officers, Carli Hutchison and Hannah Good.

Once the meeting was adjourned the members made gingerbread houses and decorated the houses with lots of different candy.

The Creative Clovers had a meeting on January 15. The Pledge of Allegiance was led by Gabby Park and the 4-H pledge was led by Carli Hutchison. The club advisor, Angie Kinne, explained about Parliamentary procedures and how to make a motion and approve it. The club made trail mix and had to make motions and approve them for everything we put in it. The club voted on a club name and chose, Creative Clovers. Angie Kinne then explained demonstrations and gave an example by showing us how to wear a scarf. The club looked through sample project books and Naomi Kinne talked about her projects from her first year to help members decide upon project selections. The Creative Clovers next meeting is on February 14th.

Future Farmers of Monroe
News Reporter – Grace Wolfe

Future Farmers of Monroe met Wednesday, February 4 at the Monroe Township Building. The Treasurer reported a balance of $208.00. The club voted to participate in two Community projects of Easter weekend. They will help sponsor the community Easter egg hunt at the Five Points park. They will also visit Pickaway Manor nursing home with treats for residents and live bunnies to pet.

Connor VanDine and Weston Tufts gave demonstrations.